Dear Customer,

April is upon us and it's a very special time in the history of our country. It's been 24 years since South Africa held its first democratic elections in 1994. It is a time to reflect on the great strides we have made in achieving the vision of a better life for all. At SAA, we are committed to spreading the warm spirit of our people to the world and connecting the world with our blossoming nation.

This month we also celebrate Mother Earth Day and we are reminded that without our planet we are nothing. As an airline we can make a big impact by reducing our carbon emissions and improving fuel efficiencies.

Our newsletter is jam packed. We talk about ladies in aviation, where you can celebrate Freedom Day, the rewards of the SAA Voyager programme, our special offers and the latest news.

Wherever your freedom takes you in this beautiful world this month, South African Airways is ready to take you there.

Regards,

South African Airways

Women In Aviation

Air travel – which has long been considered something of a ‘boys’ club’ – is slowly but surely making way for inspirational women with a love for all things aviation.

Asnath Mahapa, became the first female commercial pilot in 1998 and has moved on to become a beacon of hope for all women with dreams of being pilots.

Captain Mahapa is moving mountains in the aviation field. She founded African College of Aviation, the first flight training school to be 100% African owned and also the first to be managed by African women.

Book your flight now on www.flysaa.com and Captain Mahapa could take you on a journey of a lifetime.

While you're at it, why not take a flight to Johannesburg where you can visit Liliesleaf Farm in Rivonia or the Apartheid Museum near Gold Reef City Casino.

Soweto is always a destination to see and you can visit the iconic Vilakazi Street, where two Nobel Prize Winners Archbishop Desmond Tutu and Nelson Mandela once resided.
