SAA's Angels

It's just another flight from Cape Town to Johannesburg. You get on the bus. And notice that the bus driver is female. Interesting, you think to yourself. Then you step on the plane and greeted with big smiles by the cabin crew. They're all female too. Nothing too unusual there.

Then, you settle in and the commander of the plane introduced herself. Yes. Herself. Wait. What? She also introduces the First Officer with a very feminine sounding name. You're on SA306. 11 February 2016. And you're on just another usual flight between Cape Town and Johannesburg. And you smile. Because you're flying with one of the world's most progressive airlines.

You're on a South African Airways flight operated entirely by women. Proud. Capable. And flying high.

Explore Nosy Be, Madagascar

Nosy Be boasts some of the most beautiful beaches in the Indian Ocean, lined with coconut palms and caressed by turquoise waters. Sea lovers will indulge in their passions of, world-class scuba diving and snorkelling, sport fishing, cruising on a fully crewed catamaran and sea kayaking. Nosy Be offers travellers a taste of everything Malagasy, such as the endangered and unique lemurs, chameleons, pristine national parks and marine reserves, local rum and delicious seafood, beaches and activities.

Airlink is re-introducing a weekly service between Johannesburg and Nosy Be, commencing Sunday 20 March 2016.

Book your flight online.
